

Open Interpretation Rules

Description: The Open Interpretation is an original rendition by the competitor from published or unpublished literature and/or self-written work. The presentation may range from dramatic to humorous genres, and it may include narrative storytelling, single voice monologues, or thematic compilations.

Goal: To select and analyze written work(s), then bring to life through the creative use of voice, movement, and facial expression.

Open Interpretation Preparation Rules:

1. Interpretive literature may come from a wide variety of sources including original works by the competitor, published works, and/or unpublished works by others.
2. The following unpublished works are not permitted: blogs and media transcripts (i.e., movie scripts and audio or video recordings that are not published in written form by the owner). See the Stoa Publication Guidelines.
3. The competitor must create a completely original interpretation of literature. Competitors may not copy the added words, cutting and/or blocking of a previous speech and/or video. See the Stoa Plagiarism Policy.
4. The literature may be edited to fit the time limit.
5. The competitor may weave multiple sources together around a common theme.
6. There is no limit to the number of words added by the competitor or any restriction on how those words are used.
7. Dialogue from one character may be given to another character.
8. A competitor may use an interpretive selection in multiple leagues during any given competitive season. The selection may be entered in only one event per tournament (e.g., either Dramatic or Open but not both).
9. Once the competitor uses a selection (book, play, short story, etc.) in any competition in any venue, that competitor may not reuse any part of the published work in subsequent years of competition. The Bible is an exception to this rule.
10. The competitor may enter only one interpretive selection per event.
11. The competitor must provide a script and scanned/photocopied pages used from the original source(s) at each tournament. The title page, copyright page, and original source pages must be from the same source. See the Script Submission Form. Note: Electronic Script Submission is required at NITOC.
